MEDICAL CENTER CLINIC PHYSICIAN NAMED 2026 INWEEKLY RISING STAR

PENSACOLA, FL — April 8, 2026: Medical Center Clinic (MCC) is proud to announce that rheumatologist T. Alexander Edgil, MD, has been recognized as a 2026 InWeekly Rising Star, an honor highlighting emerging leaders making a meaningful impact across the region.

Dr. Edgil, who joined Medical Center Clinic in 2024, provides specialized care in rheumatology, focusing on the diagnosis and management of autoimmune and inflammatory conditions. He currently sees patients at MCC locations in Pensacola and Navarre, expanding access to much-needed subspecialty care across the community.

In addition to his clinical work, Dr. Edgil serves as President-Elect of the Escambia County Medical Society (ECMS), further demonstrating his commitment to advancing healthcare both within and beyond the clinic setting.

"Dr. Edgil's recognition as a Rising Star is a reflection of the care, dedication, and leadership he brings to both his patients and the broader medical community," said Hope Cooper, Practice Manager. "Since joining MCC, he has made a meaningful impact on access to rheumatology services while building strong relationships with patients and colleagues alike."

The InWeekly Rising Stars program recognizes individuals across industries who are shaping the future of the Gulf Coast through leadership, innovation, and service.

Medical Center Clinic remains committed to bringing high-quality, specialized care to the communities it serves, and Dr. Edgil's recognition reflects that ongoing mission.
